Practice philosophy:

I offer evidence-based, patient centered care. Having completed fellowships in sports medicine, as well as shoulder and elbow surgery, I have extensive experience in dealing with both "simple" and complex problems. My training in the both the United States and Europe has given me the exposure towards dealing with failed prior surgeries and unsatisfactory outcomes. I listen to the patient, and more importantly, work with the patient to understand the problem and achieve a satisfactory result. Work related trauma, recreational and professional athletic injuries, as well as degenerative problems that inevitably come with age fall within the broad spectrum of disorders that I treat. I offer particular expertise in minimally invasive surgery, arthroscopy, instability management, rotator cuff repair, arthritis and joint replacement, and complex issues related to failed prior procedures.
